

Honoring Memories

Where Memories Live

Dealing with the loss of a loved one is one of the most challenging obstacles anyone can be faced with. It is a time to come together and celebrate with others the wonderful photographs, movies and memories gathered over time. Honoring Memories provides a means by which people all over the world can come together to honor someone they have lost.

The custom designed, personalized products of Honoring Memories have been specifically created to give families an increased ability to make a more creative, unique, and unforgettable online memorial.

OUR STORY:

Honoring Memories is an online memorial organization which sets the standard for providing high quality, unique memorials to individuals and families empowering them find the needed way to remember and honor their loved ones. We strive to connect with, grieve with, laugh with, and uplift the lives of our customers.

We value, above all, our ability to serve everyone who can benefit from our product. Our company has established a giving program focusing on the communities where we live and do business, and is concentrated in three major areas: research, development and patient care.

A NOTE FROM THE FOUNDERS:

We founded Honoring Memories after experiencing the loss of a loved one. We realized that everyone had a stories, photographs, and words to share but no good way to share them, a memorial website was the best solution. It allowed family and friends all over the world to see pictures and share stories honoring the memory and celebrating the life of someone who touched so many. We saw the options available to us and were very unsatisfied. We did not want to take the memory of a remarkably dynamic individual and use a cookie cutter template with no character and no personality to honor his life. We decided we could design it best ourselves. Friends and family were so happy to see photos they hadn't seen in years or had never seen, share old stories, and read comments left by friends and family home and abroad. The memorial brought so much joy and comfort to our family and friends providing a way to not only grieve but celebrate that we wanted to provide the same for others.

OUR PHILOSOPHY:

We at Honoring Memories not only want to provide a way to celebrate the lives to those loved and lost, but we want to give back to those who have helped us all along the way. We have established a corporate donor program with hospitals and hospices, those institutions that have provided care throughout, giving back a percentage of each purchase to go toward research, development and patient care. These institutions have not only provided care for those we have lost but emotional support to those who have lost someone.

A COROPORATE DONOR PROGRAM

It has been said the success of a society is best measured by how well the most vulnerable members are cared for.

We are indebted to the many people who provide ongoing care and support to families. We at Honoring Memories would like to give back by making donations,

We hope that every donation will make a big impact – we would like to see a lasting and tangible change as the result of our contribution.

Today we are bombarded by information about the world’s problems through a wide variety of channels. Although we may isolate ourselves...we can’t escape from knowing about misery, injustice, and wasted human potential. Often we feel powerless in the face of this grim reality. A donation offers us a way to respond.

A portion of our sales is donated back to those institutions that have dedicated themselves to carrying for our loved ones throughout their lives.
